Guardsmen spend holiday at Shelby

Special to The Echo
 The 1355th Service and Supply Company of Ocean Springs and Bay St. Louis is back at Camp Shelby after an absence for service in Operation Desert Shield/Desert Storm.

The unit, which spent its last Fourth of July in Saudi Arabia, had hoped to celebrate this Fourth of July at home, said Sgt. Walter Reed, laundry NCO, from Detachment 1 in Bay St. Louis.

However, the 1355th, along with several hundred more Mississippi Army National Guard members reported to Camp Shelby on the Fourth to begin at least to be back in Mississippi training.

But Reed and his fellow guardsmen who make up the laundry section where pleased for the Fourth this year. A major difference, besides locations, between this Fourth

Marsh to retire

BY TRACI BONNEY
 The board of supervisors accepted Wednesday the resignation of fire marshal Jay Marsh.

Marsh, who has worked for the county 27 years in firefighting, six of them as a paid employee and the other 21 as a volunteer, said in a letter that he plans to retire.

The letter stated that his retirement is effective September 15.

The supervisors accepted his resignation unanimously (with the exception of Wilmer Seymour, who was at Camp Shelby) with the National Guard), but said they did so with regret.

AMBULANCE SERVICE
 The board unanimously authorized a one-year contract, pending the contract's approval by board attorney Gerald Gex, with Mobile Medic for ambulance service in the county.

Until now, the board and Mobile Medic have had a "gentlemen's agreement" that the company would provide ambulance service. Recently, however, another company submitted a contract proposal to the

Pete Johnson named FmHA head

Former state auditor Pete Johnson was officially appointed state director of Farmers Home Administration programs and personnel last week, according to Senators Thad Cochran and Trent Lott.

Lott and Cochran said the White House notified them Wednesday of the appointment. They both stated their approval of President Bush's choice, and said they believe Johnson will do an excellent job in his new position.

Johnson, 44, replaces Jim Huff of Laurel, who was sworn in recently as administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington, D.C. Johnson has been working in the state office of Farmers Home Administration the last six months.

Before serving as state auditor from 1988 to 1992, Johnson was employed by a Clarksdale bank and had extensive experience in that capacity involving farm loans in the Delta.

Farmers Home Administration employs about 530 people statewide, and administers a loan program of more than $2 of July and last year is that last year Rep. Gene Taylor brought boiled shrimp and root beer to the unit's members celebrating this nation's independence in the middle of the Saudi desert, Reed said.

Reed, an unemployed house painter in civilian life, said the unit has dropped a little under strength since returning from the desert but that it is still able to perform its job.

He said the unit's recruiters are working to replace those who opted to leave the service following the Middle East crisis.

Spec. Francis Page, also of Bay St. Louis, said the main difference he notices between Camp Shelby and Saudi Arabia is that while it was a lot hotter in the desert, the heat was a lot drier.

"You didn't sweat over there," Page said.

He said the setup at Camp Shelby is much the same this year as it was in the years before the call-up. Page noted that the unit had newer equipment for laundry service at Camp Shelby than it had in the desert.

Spec. Robert Greene of Bay St. Louis said that the unit did about 500 to 600 bundles of laundry per day, sometimes much more, while in the desert.

"We do only about 200 at the most here. We supported everybody in the world in Saudi Arabia," Greene said.

The laundry section agreed that it was much better to be in Mississippi, closer to home, this fourth of July than it would have been to be back in Saudi.

Next Fourth of July, the group hopes they get to stay home with their families and friends to celebrate a traditional, good old-fashioned Fourth of July.

The supervisors said they were satisfied with Mobile Medic's service to the southern part of the county, but were concerned about the company's response time to the northern area. The other company's proposal offered to have ambulances in the northern and southern parts of the county at the cost currently being charged by Mobile Medic.

Company spokesman John Rester spoke with the supervisors recently, and again Wednesday, about the matter. He explained that Mobile Medic and AAA Ambulance from Pearl River County have a reciprocal agreement. This means that anyone with a membership through either company can get ambulance service from whichever one happens to be closest to the emergency scene.

After Rester assured the supervisors that Mobile Medic would advertise the availability of the reciprocal agreement in both the Picayune Item and The Sea Coast Echo, as well as send out brochures explaining the agreement to the residents of northern Hancock County, the supervisors approved the contract.

"QUOTEABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I realize it is early to talk about basketball, as its regular season is months away. Yet, it is not too early to think about the sport because of the 3rd Annual Gulf Coast School of Basketball scheduled for the week of August 3-7.

The camp to be held at St. Stanislaus for boys and girls with Michael Ladner, assistant head coach Memphis State University, and Jay Ladner, member of the 37 National Invitational Tournament Champions, University of Southern Mississippi Golden Eagle basketball team and head coach at St. Stanislaus College as camp directors.

There is a camp fee of $40 with family rates of two for $5 and three for $100.

There will be special guest appearances by Roland Danner, winningest high school boys' coach in the state of Mississippi and J. Larry Ladner, former Kiln High star, former head basketball coach at Picayune High School, and retired Basketball Specialist in the Department of Coaching and Sports Administration, University of Southern Mississippi.

Camp registration for girls will be on Aug. 3, 7:30 to 9 a.m., St. Stanislaus High School; and registration for boys will be on Aug. 3, 4:30 to 6 p.m., also at St. Stanislaus.

The sessions for boys will be from 6 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday; and for girls from 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday.

Jay Ladner reports there has been a good response to the camp, and enrollment will be limited to the first 100. For further information, call Jay Ladner at 55-3393 or St. Stanislaus, 467-9057.

The camp offers an outstanding instructional staff, complete supervision, Free Camp T-Shirt with enrollment fee, and learning in an enthusiastic atmosphere. It sounds like there will be a lot of basketball knowledge available for our young boys and girls from some experienced coaches and former talented players.

It is getting close to that time of year when some rents are beginning to start smiling as school opening, not too far into the future.

With classes beginning in the middle of August, it seems summer passes by so fast.

This is the time when parents begin to prepare for the start of school by purchasing clothing and other supplies.

It is always a good idea to try and do the shopping at home first, because in the long run, you get the best bargains.

Your purchases help the local economy, give your neighbors employment and contribute to your governmental agencies and school operations with taxes.

Literacy is a term one hears a lot about nowadays, as is getting harder and harder to function without being able to read.

The Hancock County Library Literacy Education program is in need of more tutors.

There are also classes being formed for parents to improve their reading skills so they can help their children with school work.

If you would like to learn to read, improve your reading, or be a tutor for reading, math or writing, call the library at 467-5282 for further information.

U.S.A. Forest Service and your State Foresters

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Straight talking

I spent time over the spring holidays back in Mississippi. I stayed at home in Pascagoula, but traveled all around the state from Oxford and Aberdeen in the north to Greenwood in the Delta, and Tylertown and Lumberton in the south to Gulfport on the Coast.

It was good to be back home and take time to sit with various groups and people who stressed to me their concerns and ideas for Mississippi and the nation.

I met with members of the Mississippi Press Association and with civic organization on the Coast. I went to the Salute to Industry Luncheon in Aberdeen, and I attended the groundbreaking ceremony of the American Fabrics Company in Tylertown.

Also, I met with members of the Salvation Army in Jackson County, and was honored to present eight Mississippi law enforcement units with nearly $95,000 in Asset Forfeiture Sharing Program funds. A forfeiture award is money confiscated from drug criminals which the Department of Justice gives back, in part, to law divisions for fighting crime.

The chance to set up dialogue and hear what groups such as these are accomplishing in Mississippi is priceless to me and to my role as a U.S. senator. But, perhaps even more helpful is the opportunity to visit and talk with the real people of Mississippi.

I stopped at the local post office, bank and cafe in Oxford. I walked downtown in Lumberton and visited the drug store, barber and shoe shop in Pascagoula. Visits such as these are what I enjoy and savor most.

Listening to what folks have to say gives me the insight and ammo to come back to Washington knowing what to fight for, what to stand for, and how best to take care of the needs of Mississippi.

I am a Mississippian, and if I could do what I do back home in Mississippi instead of up here in Washington, that's where I'd be. But, having to be in our nation's capitol to represent the ideals of the Magnolia State, it sure does make it easier and gives me strength to get to meet with my fellow Mississippians and listen to them talk awhile.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Going to the polls

Once again, we're nearing the time for that ritual in which the electoral pulse of the people is taken. From the presidency down, the November elections will offer voters an opportunity to voice either their satisfaction with the current government leaders or their desire for a new roster of players in the executive and legislative arenas.

This election year is unique in Mississippi in that, due to redistricting, we are electing a full Legislature for the second time in a 12-month period. We are also faced with a record number of candidates running for legislative office.

Electing qualified candidates depends on two simple things: voting and research. As far as the voting goes, perhaps the reason more people across the state are complaining about their elected officials is because fewer people are taking the time to vote. This year's primary for legislative elections is scheduled for Aug. 4; take the time to make your voice heard at the ballot box.

Research on the candidates is the basis for an intelligent vote. With the wide variety of issues facing the state, and the large slate of candidates running for the legislature, simply asking questions is the best way to make an informed choice. Know your district, and know the people seeking to represent you. Call them, or write them, or attend one of the rallies—and find out what you want to know.

MEC has a few questions ready for the candidates, and these only scratch the surface of the issues before the state:

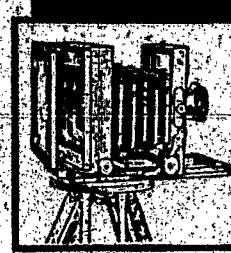

Will you work to ensure that Mississippi's tax dollars are used wisely, without incurring further waste or taxation on the people of the state?

Will you make funding of education a priority, keeping a close watch on where and how efficiently the money is spent?

Do you support requiring greater accountability from public school teachers and administrators?

Former President Richard Nixon once said, "Most Americans are simply fed up with government at all levels." This has never been more appropriate than in this election year, but if you're fed up with government, remember that it's within your power to change it.

Just ask the questions.

Tons of wax flowed and burned like molten lava as firefighters fought a Saturday night blaze at TER Chemicals, Inc. in Pass Christian. Fire Chief George Mixon of the Pass Fire Department Wednesday reported an investigative firm is now inspecting a granulator in a northeast section of the Pass Christian Industrial Seaway plant to determine cause of the seven-alarm fire.

Like two people considering entering a three-legged race together, the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are viewing each other as possible teammates in a race to resolve the wastewater issue. Last week, Waveland approved a resolution to join the Waveland Wastewater District, a management scheme for Hancock County that was approved by the state legislature several years ago. Approximately one week later on Tuesday, the Bay Council also agreed to join the same district.

Ninety-one candidates for county and district offices were certified by the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee at a meeting Monday evening. Only one person, Emile Piazza, was declared a nominee. He is unopposed in his bid for a fifth term as county coroner and ranger:

Exactly 10,121 names were on the list of qualified voters in Hancock County by the time registration closed at 5 p.m. last Friday for the forthcoming August primaries and at least 14 additional boxes will have to be created to handle the balloting. Circuit Clerk Lamar Otis listed the following as a rundown of the number of qualified electors: Beat One, 801; Beat 2, 420; Beat 3, 880; Beat 4, 1,475; and Beat 5, 6,545.

A 50-foot hose, with nozzle at the end, will deliver four gallons of water per minute to water a garden or lawn. This in 10 hours will equal 2,400 gallons. Or, as some people are saying they are paying too much for water, let the water run for day and night, that is 24 hours, at 240 gallons per hour, makes 5,760 gallons a day, and if they had to pay 15¢ per thousand gallons, 7¢ per day, they soon would leave their garden or lawn alone. In some large cities a "hose faucet" connected to water pipes, in use or not, call for $3 more water rent.

The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club people are again to be congratulated, this time more so than ever. The regatta given Saturday last was in every detail the most successful ever had. Bay-Waveland for years have had the regatta celebration, and all successful, but this year the demonstration eclipsed all former attempts. Every detail which had previously been most wisely and elaborately mapped was carried out to the letter. We have had on these waters successes and successes, almost without number, but a more complete success to attempt would indeed be vain. A larger number of boats never participated in the animated picture of white wings on the canvas of a summer sky and sea, this to be properly construed as a forerunner of the club's future popularity. A regatta here under more propitious circumstances is unknown. All praise, all applause to the management of the '97 Bay-Waveland regatta.

Clermont Harbor shoreline. Taylor explained that in order to receive federal funds, the project proposal would probably have to be routed through both the public works and appropriations committees, and would not be addressed until next year at the earliest. He added that any government funds would not be given for the project until 1994.

He said the current tri-county basin drainage study, which is being conducted to address coastal drainage issues and problems, may offer an option to finance the replacement of drain pipes and culverts, which is part of the proposed project.

"The question now is, how much do you want the federal government involved?" he asked the supervisors. "The Corps of Engineers does good work, but they are very methodical and the cost for the project will increase with them involved."

used to compute payment rates tended to overcompensate for inflation. Increases in both wages and prices were taken into account.

"Because of unusually high inflation in the 1970s, benefit rates increased dramatically for those initially affected, people born in 1910 and later."

"This excessive indexation for inflation would have ultimately led to benefit payments higher than pre-retirement earnings for the average worker."

"Congress corrected the formula in 1977, bringing the rate of returns down to the 40-42 percent intended."

Mull continued, "Since the people born between 1910 and 1916 were receiving their benefits at the higher rate, Congress decided not to reduce them. These people are referred to as the 'windfall babies.'

To ease the burden of the changeover for people approaching retirement age, a five-year transition period was implemented, gradually lowering the rate of benefits for people born from 1917 to 1921 in an attempt to bring payment levels back under control. These people are referred to as the 'notch babies'."

Mull stated that in actuality, people born during the notch years are receiving a slightly higher average rate than people born in 1922 and later.

Congressman Gene Taylor's office disagrees with Mull. Taylor's press secretary Shawn Bullard reported, "According to a February 1991 Social Security analysis of House Bill (HB) 917 the administration confirms the bill to balance the twin concerns of fiscal responsibility and benefit equity better than any previous proposal."

Mull said that though he has no knowledge of a February 1991 analysis of HB 917, Social Security could be saying this bill is better than others proposed, meaning it requests less of an increase.

Bullard added according to information provided to Taylor, those born between 1917 and 1926 receive 20 percent less monies than the windfall era, and 10 percent less monies than those born following 1926.

He said Taylor stands by the position that notch babies are not receiving their fair share in social security benefits.

Bullard commented, "We must remember these people, the Social Security Administration, are the same people who to begin with, made the miscalculation."

"And we must keep in the forefront the thought that many people on Social Security live on a fixed income and count on every dollar. A $10-20 increase could mean the difference between meeting the rent payment or purchasing groceries."

Should HB 917 become law, he continued, it is projected the additional costs will peak at over $4 billion and begin an annual decline after 1997, not the $200 billion plus reported by Social Security to be the projected outlay.

According to Taylor's office, within this decade $1 trillion will be added to the Social Security reserves, covering the additional costs anticipated through HB 917.

A supporter of the Social Security Administration position is the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

In AARP Bulletin, executive director Horace B. Deets states, "AARP believes the 1977 adjustment was fair and equitable. The problem is not that those born 1917-1921 are being cheated. They receive the proper benefit. Instead, some of those born right before — the 'bonanza babies' — got a larger benefit than the Social Security law intended."

"Current efforts to enact 'notch reform' legislation are inappropriate and wrong for a number of reasons. First, no inequity exists — no beneficiaries are receiving less than they deserve. Second, providing overpayments to even more people would jeopardize Social Security's financial stability."

Mull added that this has become an extremely emotional issue. "This could be as simple as comparing apples to oranges. Are we discussing rates of replacement, or overall payments?"

He added that should payment replacement rates for those born between 1917 and 1926 be made equal to those received by the windfall babies, what is to stop the next group (those born between 1927 and 1930) from crying foul?

Corps spokesman Burke confirmed Taylor's assertion that the Corps can give financial assistance in drainage matters as well as seawall protection, but he said pumping in a beach for recreational purposes is not a high priority for the Corps.

County engineer Larry Seal asked him if the Corps could fund repairs to a collapsed section of the seawall along Beach Blvd. in the Bay View Court area. Burke said the Corps could fund the repairs, up to $500,000.

Mitchell asked Burke if the Corps would help fund the beach renourishment if the beach is considered a passive structure for the protection of the seawall. "After all, the purpose of the seawall is to protect the beach road, and the purpose of the beach is to protect the seawall," Mitchell said.

Burke told him the Corps could fund the renourishment of the beach for seawall protection purposes, at a rate of up to $500,000 for each segment to be renourished.

However, Burke pointed out that this approach to the problem would be a one-time offer, with no future maintenance on the Corps' part.

Mitchell and the supervisors agreed, though, that this idea may offer a short-term solution to the problem and grant a reprieve while the county draws up a more long-term plan that may also involve the Corps. If the Corps is involved in a long-term beach renourishment, the Corps will guarantee maintenance of the project for about 50 years after completion, Burke said.

After some further discussion of the project, the supervisors decided to take a first step and pass a resolution requesting emergency funding from the Corps for the drainage portion of the project.

The resolution passed unanimously.

ROBBERY

Sheriff's Department Investigator Matt Karl reported the arrest Wednesday of three juveniles, ages 15, 16 and 17, on robbery charges.

Karl said "Three young men were traveling to New Orleans from South Carolina and stopped in the new Todd's Convenience Store on Highway 603 near the Kiln-Waveland Cutoff Road to ask directions at approximately 5 a.m."

"The three local juveniles gave the men directions to the beach. The South Carolina men drove toward Clermont Harbor and became lost, turning down a dirt road where their car became stuck. The three juveniles followed the South Carolina men and upon arrival offered to assist in freeing the car."

"The juveniles attacked the South Carolina men, beating them. The juveniles took the wallets, totaling $300 in cash, and the wrist watches of the South Carolina men and left."

"The South Carolina men noted the car tag number of the three juveniles and reported it along with the robbery to the sheriff's department."

Following the arrest of the three juveniles, it was discovered that two burglaries, theft of contents from a shed-and-car, had occurred during the night previous to the robbery of the three men.

"The juveniles were charged with the robberies."

Karl added, "All items were recovered from both burglaries and the robbery of the men, with the exception of $2."

Karl and Deputy Kevin Castle are in charge of the investigation of the robbery, and Investigator Nathan Hoda and Deputy George Burleson are in charge of the burglary investigations.

Seafood on the grill

Low-fat nutritious entrees offer alternative to beef

Grilling has developed some stereotypes over the years: Dad always did the cooking; thick, juicy steaks and burgers or messy, greasy ribs were what he typically cooked; and weekends were when he fired up the grill.

But grilling in the '90's is breaking through all of those images. Everyone is a chef at the grill now; singles on their condo patio; busy moms in need of a quick dinner; and, most important, health-conscious cooks who are wanting the most flavor and nutrition with the least amount of fat and calories in as little time as possible.

But the most significant change in grilling has come in what goes on the grill. Seafood has become one of the most ideal entrees to cook outdoors. Lean, low in fat and calories, high in protein, vitamins and minerals, and bursting with flavor, seafood is the ultimate choice for summer cookouts.

Inside Tips for Cooking Out

Thoroughly clean the grill with a brush. Fish tends to stick to a dirty grill. Wipe the grill with cooking oil to help prevent sticking. (Don't use butter; it burns too easily.)

The fish basket and spatula also need to be oiled. Or spray all of these utensils with vegetable cooking spray to cut calories and fat.

Start the fire about 30 minutes before you want to start cooking. Let the fire burn until white hot. Spread the charcoal evenly to keep the heat equally distributed.

Outdoor gas grills and electric barbecues should be preheated. Use an electric fire starter or kindling to get the fire going; however, strong fire starters and self-lighting charcoal briquettes which have a strong aroma may transfer their aromas to the delicately tasting fish.

Adjust the grill to 4 to 6 inches above the heat. When the fire is moderately hot, it's time to cook. This temperature will sear the flesh and retain the natural moisture of the fish.

For kabobs, select square-sided or flat skewers. (Round ones let the seafood slip and turn.) When selecting items for a kabob, use for foods that cook in the same length of time. You may need to put fish and vegetables on separate skewers since fish cooks so quickly. Most one-inch pieces of seafood will cook in 5 to 8 minutes. Turn and baste frequently while cooking.

The general guide for cooking seafood steaks is 10 minutes per inch of thickness at 450 degrees. This is a guide only; not all fish will cook at the same time. Stay close to the grill. Cooking time is crucial and the length of time from done to overdone is short. Check frequently, especially 2 to 3 minutes before you think it's going to be done. "Done" means when the fish flakes easily when tested with a fork and the watery, translucent appearance becomes milky and opaque.

SKEWERED SEAFOOD SANDWICHES

2/3 pound tuna* steaks, cut into 1" cubes
3/4 pound large shrimps (26 to 30 count), peeled and deveined

1/2 cup lemon juice
3 Tablespoons water
1 Tablespoon olive oil
1 clove garlic, pressed
4 slices sourdough bread, toasted
4 leaves leaf lettuce
8 thin slices tomato
Lemon Caper Mayonnaise (recipe below)

(*Note: alternate species: swordfish, shark, halibut or salmon)

Place tuna and shrimp in a shallow, nonmetallic dish; set aside. Combine lemon juice and next 3 ingredients; pour over seafood and stir gently. Cover and refrigerate 1 hour. Drain, discarding marinade. Thread 3 shrimp and 2 tuna cubes alternately onto eight 6" skewers.

Coat grill rack with vegetable cooking spray. Place kabobs on grill 4" to 5" from medium hot coals. Grill, turning once, just until shrimp is opaque and tuna begins to flake when tested with a fork, allowing about 3 minutes on each side. Remove from grill; set aside.

Arrange bread slices on individual serving plates. Spread 2 Tablespoons Lemon Caper Mayonnaise on each slice. Top each with a lettuce leaf and 2 tomato slices. Place 2 kabobs on each sandwich and carefully remove skewers. Top with remaining mayonnaise. Yield: 4 servings

LEMON CAPER MAYONNAISE
2 Tablespoons reduced-calorie mayonnaise
1 Tablespoon nonfat plain yogurt

2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel

2 teaspoons capers, drained
Combine the first 4 ingredients, stirring well. Fold in capers. Refrigerate 1 hour.

KABOBS OF SALMON SPIRALS AND SHELLFISH

3/4 pound salmon fillets, skinned

4 sprigs fresh dillweed
1 medium zucchini
1 medium-sized yellow bell pepper

1/2 pound sea scallops or medium shrimp
1/3 cup lime juice
1 Tablespoon reduced-calorie margarine, melted
2 teaspoons Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon chopped fresh dillweed

Cucumber Dill Sauce (recipe below)

Cut salmon into strips 5" x 1 1/4". Place a sprig of dillweed on each strip. Curl each salmon strip to form a spiral; secure with a toothpick and set aside.

Cut zucchini in half lengthwise, then cut diagonally into 1/2" pieces; set aside. Cut pepper into quarters; remove seeds and stem. Cut each piece in half. Thread one salmon spiral (remove toothpicks) with scallops and/or shrimp, zucchini and peppers alternating onto 4 skewers. Place skewers in a large, shallow dish.

Combine lime juice and the next 3 ingredients; mix well and pour over kabobs. Cover and refrigerate 30 minutes.

Remove kabobs from marinade; set aside. Coat grill with vegetable cooking spray. Place kabobs on grill 4" to 5" from hot coals. Grill, brushing kabobs with marinade and turning once, just until scallops are milky and opaque and salmon begins to flake when tested with a fork, allowing 4 to 5 minutes on each side.

To serve, transfer kabobs to individual serving plates. Carefully remove skewers. Serve with Cucumber Dill Sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

Education is the focus of extension homemaker clubs

Changing needs in the diverse society of the 1980's is motivating Mississippi's extension home economists to adapt their programs to meet growing segments of the state's population.

"Extension home economics has always tried to strengthen families through education," said Darlene Underwood, Hancock County home economist. "This year, we're looking not only at what we're teaching, but also who needs the information."

Economic strains and hardships on the family unit are resulting in an increased number of at-risk families. Financial and emotional pressures on adults and children are reaching epidemic proportions.

"By identifying the segments of our population with the greatest need for help from extension home economics, we can increase efficiency and improve life in Hancock County," said Underwood.

Underwood said her office offers educational materials on family topics such as improving family communication, positive parenting techniques, food safety, nutritional health, housing issues, home-based businesses, family economics, and clothing and textiles.

Special programs on weight control, child caregiving and budgeting are popular topics for county residents.

One method Hancock County residents learn about issues affecting the home and family is through extension homemaker clubs. Each of the clubs in Hancock County are open to people of all backgrounds and needs.

"Our homemaker clubs allow members to learn from Extension and from each other," Underwood said.

For more information about homemaker clubs and special educational programs, contact the local extension office at 467-5456, or come to the office at 3064 Longfellow Drive, Bay St. Louis.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

You can save lives

If you could save a dozen human lives by undergoing pain and inconvenience no greater than most ordinary medical tests, would you take the time to do it?

Suppose you could save a dozen or so lives about four times a year with less effort than you would exert in walking a mile, would you go to the trouble to do it?

The plain truth is that you can indeed save a bunch of lives each time you donate blood. For all the pious Bible reading that we do, for all the idealistic, glowing words we speak about the sanctity and preciousness of human life, it is dismaying how neglectful we are of sharing our blood.

One pint of blood, which most people can donate within a fraction of an hour, breaks down into plasma and other components which are instrumental in saving the lives of people with various needs in their circulatory system.

So easy. So quick. So efficient. How is it possible that we humans, supposedly so intelligent and rational, can be so blase, so reluctant, so lackadaisical, so indifferent about our life-saving power which is so easy to transmit?

In fact, we are so languid in our attitude toward donating blood that most of us don't even stop to donate blood to be used for ourselves in case we are in need.

Nowadays, of course, with the threat of AIDS and other communicable diseases, the value of donating blood for our own use is enhanced manifold.

This leads to an even more difficult area of donations; this is, difficult for discovering donors. If blood donations are low, bone marrow donations don't even give the appearance of crawling.

Leukemia, aplastic anemia and other fatal diseases claim the lives of thousands of African Americans and other racial minorities each year. Bone marrow transplants could bring about a cure in many of these cases.

However, the bone marrow for such transplants is in such short supply that only 11 blacks have found a matching donor since 1988. The simple arithmetic is that the donor program has almost 470,000 volunteer donors, but only 17,400 black.

Unlike blood, bone marrow, which has the appearance of very thick blood, has inherited characteristics. Therefore, a patient has a much better chance of finding a matching donor in someone of the same ethnic or racial background.

Since 2,000 blacks need bone marrow transplants, an ambitious new campaign is underway to increase the number of black potential donors by 50,000 this year.

This bone marrow donor drive is all the more important in that the odds for finding a match donor are prohibitively high: 50,000 to one. Thus, minority leaders and all with influence need to push this as one of their top priorities.

It is not much more difficult to donate bone marrow than to donate blood. Briefly, someone aged 18-55 must give two teaspoons of blood which is typed and matched. If there is a preliminary match, additional blood tests are requested.

Should a positive match be identified, special counselors guide the prospective donor toward a decision to donate.

Following an affirmative decision, the donor undergoes a simple procedure with perhaps one day confinement.

BEAT THE HEAT AT YOUR HOUSE OF WORSHIP; IT'S COOL

During the oppressive heat and humidity of summer, remember that your House of Worship is always open, all the year round, and always ready to revive your spirits. You'll find it cool inside, and you will leave there feeling refreshed in more ways than one. You will learn that God made this world you're living in, and established the four seasons, including summer, so that we could grow our food and enjoy the beauties of nature that unfold along with the calendar. Remember even in the heat of summer that He made the water that you may have a chance to swim in, the cool grass on which you might enjoy a picnic, and the balmy star-studded nights. So don't forget to attend your House of Worship regularly this summer; it's the "cool" thing to do.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON - A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help ease world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the project of National Dietary Research, apply named Food Source One, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids, has been a windfall for some overweight people.

A Metairie, Louisiana nurse lost 7½ pounds. She stated "I never had to sacrifice the foods I dearly crave!"

"Food Source One is very easy and anyone could do it," says a Niagara Falls, New York woman who lost 26 pounds and 15 inches. "The results are great," she added.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each tablets and provide a natural, drug free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

State Oil & Gas Board awarded $10,233 grant

The Mississippi State Oil & Gas Board/Underground injection Control has been awarded a $10,233 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, according to the state's U.S. senators.

U.S. Senators Trent Lott and Thad Cochran, both R-Miss., said the money will be used for the State Underground Water Source Protection Program.

The grants will be used to pay for equipment for management and assessment for data and comprehensive data management risk base assessment. The equipment will help to locate class II underground injection control wells, which are used for oil and gas by-product disposal such as saltwater.

The equipment—two tremble units or global positioning devices—will be used for surveying. The hand-held electronic units utilize navigational means from satellites to pinpoint class II wells within 3 to 15 meters. The data is displayed digitally.

Safeguard financial records during hurricane season

By Janet K. Lukens
Area consumer money management specialist

Those of us who have lived through hurricanes while owning property on the Mississippi Gulf Coast are acutely aware of the need for records and property inventories in substantiating insurance claims after the storm subsides.

Unfortunately, it takes an experience such as a hurricane to motivate most people to action in getting financial records organized. But it is too late to gather insurance documentation when a hurricane or other natural disaster strikes.

This preparation should be an ongoing process which is started as soon as the family begins building assets and acquiring property.

How should financial and property records be organized and where should they be kept? There is no one location that is appropriate for all financial records.

Some records are needed frequently and should be at ready access on the person at all times. These include the driver's license, auto registration, social security card, most credit cards, insurance cards and other identification.

Many items should be kept away from the home in a safe-deposit box for assurance of safekeeping. These will include insurance policies, a household inventory and proof of property condition (usually in the form of photographs, videotape, and purchase receipts) all necessary in the event of damage to the home.

Other items which should be stored in the safe-deposit box are birth certificates, installment contracts, government bonds, marriage license, divorce papers, real estate documents, social security card (copy), stock certificates, and passports.

A safe-deposit box is extremely safe from fire and theft but is leased in only a name. An individual's name will be erased immediately upon the death of the owner such that contents inside may not be easily available.

Joint ownership of the safe-deposit box or duplicate copies of some information contained in the box can sometimes be helpful for this reason. Items such as special burial instructions should be left with family members and the individual's attorney rather than the safe-deposit box.
